Hepworth Acoustics continues expansion with key appointment in Bristol and new office in East Midlands

June 2007: Hepworth Acoustics is continuing its policy of expanding its network of offices with a new opening in East Midlands plus the key appointment of Graham Bowland at its Bristol office.

Peter Hepworth, managing director of Hepworth Acoustics, adds: "East Midlands is our seventh regional office and there are more in the pipeline, ensuring that we provide our clients with a tight network of offices around the UK. In Bristol, bringing Graham on board adds breadth to our professional services in the region and ensures that our clients, potential and existing, are fully supported."

New office in Castle Donnington

The East Midlands region is now serviced by a Hepworth Acoustics office in Castle Donnington, which is headed up by Principal Consultant Richard Housley. The office will provide consultancy on all aspects of environmental and building acoustics.

Graham Bowland for Bristol operation

Hepworth Acoustics is developing its client base in South West England and Wales with the appointment of acoustics specialist Graham Bowland to head up the firm's regional office in Bristol, which opened last year. He joins the firm from WSP Group, where he handled planning assessments and building acoustics, especially in educational and public buildings.

“Hepworth has built up an impressive client base since it established the office and there are opportunities to expand on this,” says Graham Bowland. “My experience is complementary to the firm’s portfolio of acoustic consultancy services and I look forward to making a significant impact on our business in the South West and Wales.”
