Bristol office makes Hepworth a South West and Wales local

19 January 2006: Leading UK noise consultants Hepworth Acoustics continues its expansion programme as the doors of its new Bristol office open today.

“Opening in Bristol gives us a local base to service the South West of England and South Wales,” says managing director Peter Hepworth. “This is a diverse area that includes large conurbations, industrial areas and seaports, all with major road and rail links, so the issue of environmental noise is an important one. Our clients in this area, which range from commercial enterprises to government bodies, are already welcoming the new office and we are looking forward to further expansion in the region.”

The office will initially be managed by Hepworth senior consultant Richard Watson and is situated at 1st Floor, Aztec Centre, Aztec West, Almondsbury, Bristol, BS32 4TD. The office has been opened following the acquisition by Hepworth Acoustics of the goodwill of Woodward Acoustics as a result of the retirement of Martin Woodward. Bristol joins the Hepworth Acoustics national network, which now also includes Warrington, Sheffield, Birmingham, London and Ashford.
